

BAILEY REFUSES TO SOLICIT FUNDS

Senator Takes Exception to Reported Utterances of Dr. Alderman in New York.

EXPLANATION OF DR. PAGE

Letter Declares President of University Has Been Misinterpreted by Critics.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—Senator Bailey, of Texas, has declined to serve on the board to solicit contributions to the University of Virginia fund. He thinks it would be of doubtful propriety for a man in the public service to solicit large subscriptions, even for the most worthy objects, but he bases his declination upon a speech delivered by Dr. E. A. Alderman, president of the University, before the Southern Society of New York more than a month ago.

Bailey's Letter.
In the course of his address, Dr. Alderman, according to the published reports, said, "There were no trained men in public life from the South at this time," and asked, "where are the Calhouns and Clays of today?" The speech caused comment among Southern men in Washington, and Senator Bailey, in his letter to Mr. Page, said: "Some time ago you and others were good enough to designate me a member of a committee whose duty it is to raise by subscription a suitable fund for the University of Virginia. At that time, I was not a member of that committee. I doubt the propriety of any man while engaged in the public service soliciting large contributions, even for the most worthy purposes, but I did not feel it necessary to protest against the use of my name as a member of that committee. Recently, however, a circumstance has arisen which compels me to insist upon the withdrawal of my name from all connection with the work which your committee was intended to promote. The circumstance to which I refer is the speech which Dr. Alderman, the present head of the University, delivered before the Southern Society of New York, in which he makes a mean and unwarranted reflection upon the intellect of Southern senators and representatives in Congress. If I thought the estimate expressed Dr. Alderman's candid and unbiased opinion of the Southern men who are now engaged in the service of their respective States, I would feel less resentment, but as I am constrained here to see the favor of those millionaires who are supposed to abhor certain principles and policies advocated by Southern senators and representatives, I find it impossible to be patient with his reflections."

"It would seem that those of our own section who complain that the South no longer supplies the public with such men as John C. Calhoun, Henry Clay and Abraham Lincoln, would also remember that other sections no longer contribute such men as Daniel Webster, Rufus Choate and Abraham Lincoln. Without entering into an explanation of the changes in the habits and occupations of our people, I have established a different and perhaps a lower level of excellence in our public servants. I need only remind thoughtful and candid men that the Southern representative as favorably with their associates in intellect, character and conduct as did their predecessors and if it be true that the quality of Southern leadership is not so high as it was in the other days of the nation, it can be asserted that the truth as to all other sections. With this fact obvious to every thinking man, I have seen respect for Southern educators who unduly dispraise their own neighbors."

"Regarding beyond expression the circumstances which has rendered it impossible for me to co-operate with you in your undertaking, I have the honor to be, very truly yours,"

"J. W. BAILEY."

Dr. Page's Reply.

Several days after Mr. Bailey's letter was written, the following reply was received from Dr. Page:
"WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 19, 1905.
"Senator Joseph W. Bailey, United States Senator:
"Dear Sir:—I have your letter relating to the newspaper report of the speech recently delivered by Dr. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, before the Southern Society of New York. I am sorry that you say is to the unfortunate impression created by his reported criticism of the public men of the South."

"As to the speech in question was delivered, not before a Northern audience, though, of course, there were some Northerners present, as guests on that occasion. What was said, there was said, as it were, in the family. In the second place, I would say that while the address was intended to let the Southern people hear the voice of the South, it was not less amazed that Dr. Alderman to find how a few sentences, picked out of his address, had been distorted and misinterpreted."

"No one knows better than yourself how a paragraph or utterance, thus separated from its context, may be misinterpreted."

ated from its setting, loses its real value and may be twisted in conveying the opposite from what a speaker really intends. One may give credit for a thousand virtues and but a few faults, yet if the faults be the only thing reported, his meaning and his attitude will be wholly reversed. Such, I desire to say, has been the case in this instance. Dr. Alderman, in a brief and critical analysis of our conditions, was pleading for better opportunities to train our coming leaders than our generation has had, and the criticism to which the paragraph you have seen referred was so reasonably expressed and so soundly explained by the conditions which followed our great losses (that you, I think, or any one who heard the entire address; you would not have failed to assent to it as we who heard it assented, and would have agreed with us that it was a speech notable on many accounts, but on none more so than its tribute to the Southern people. With great respect, I am, yours sincerely,"

GROUND HOG DAY COMES ROUND AGAIN

If Frisky Animal Sees Shadow There Will be More Cold Weather.

If, when Mister Ground Hog ventures from his lair this morning to observe the shadow he will see again. Then, according to the seers of this and all other ages, there will be forty days of big log fires, heavy blankets, fur overcoats, Tom and Jerry, hot Scotchies, and so forth. If, however, he seeth not his shadow, he will gambol and frisk about in the snow, and give the plumb and modern history of the world a merry. The ice man will begin his rounds, and straw hats will be in demand. There will be no more getting up in the cold to make out the case of the "no more" will paper and old hats have to be stuffed in the holes in the windows, and shady sides of the street will be popular resorts. Mint juleps and gin flizzes will take the place of buckwheat cakes and hominy, and blankets will get back into the moth chest.

Prophet says to-day may be clear. If so, there will be trouble.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful It is in Preserving Health and Beauty. Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purposes.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system. It sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectually cleans and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and emphatically safe cathartic.

It absorbs the first injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh. All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in the form of charcoal lozenges. These are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The only use of these lozenges is the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit. A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; it also helps the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

REPUBLICANS TO WAKE A CAMPAIGN

Reorganized Party Will Select a Strong Nominee for the Governorship.

JUDGE LEWIS A FAVORITE

Mr. C. Bascom Slemp, the new State chairman of the Republican party of Virginia, recently chosen to succeed Hon. Frank Agnew, is reported as formulating his plans for the campaign for the Governorship of the State. It is understood already that the Republican purpose to make a vigorous canvass of the State in the autumn. Hon. L. L. Lewis, of this city, formerly president of the Supreme Court of Appeals, would be a safe bet for the nomination, if he would accept. Those who are close to Judge Lewis, however, express the belief that he would not accept a nomination. He is known to be averse to entering into a contest for a political office, preferring the duties of his official position and the practice of his profession.

The new chairman is regarded as one of the most conservative, sagacious and discreet men in the party in this State, and his conduct of his father's recent campaign for Congress is highly commended by Republicans everywhere. He is said to be a fine orator, and a successful director of political campaigns. The party in the State is reported to be more united now than for many years, and there are many Republicans who believe that the party will stand a chance of victory.

It is regarded as not unlikely that the party, which recently suspended publication in Roanoke, may be revived, either in this city or some other place, than Roanoke. It is reported as not embarrassed for funds, if it is determined to re-establish the party organ, formerly known as the Virginia Daily Press. The resumption of publication has yet been made.

The contest in the local factional fight has been less slight of since the election, but friends of Messrs. John G. Luce and J. L. Grubbs, elected respectively as chairman of the district and city committees of the party, claim that with the State Committee as now constituted it is a foregone conclusion that Messrs. M. Williams and J. M. Stuart will be ousted. Now that prominence in the party organization is no longer regarded with favor by the administration, many active and successful men have retired, and such positions are not so desirable as formerly. United States Marshal J. E. B. Stuart has been absent from the city for some time, and his mission is not stated. The agent of the Department of Justice, who has been here since the election, is still in the city. No announcement has been made by Mr. Stuart as to his probable selections as permanent deputy to succeed J. E. B. Stuart. Mr. Miller at Norfolk, and Mr. J. Enright and Samuel Benoit in this city. It is not regarded as certain that he will make any changes.
